2004-12-21 12:33:10 by Guardian2003

Due to the unprecedented amount of people trying to register accounts at www.nukeroyal.com we suffered a temporary server mail queue problem which resulted in a significant number of failed registrations as activation emails were not being sent out. We were so busy ovrking on our next release, we failed to spot the problem straight away./br> We would like to apologise unreservedly, to all those that tried to register an account with us and subsequently did not get their activation emails. We have now rectified the problem.
